

A platform for creative and interactive learning, playing and discovery

Actionbound represents a modern approach for individuals to learn collaboratively while having fun at the same time. We believe that learning and entertainment go hand in hand, which is why we want to offer a tool for communicating content in a creative and interactive way. With the help of our own software, the "Bound Creator", users create customised formats, so-called "Bounds", by combining game elements such as quizzes, location finding, surveys and tournaments. These can be self-created, interactive scavenger hunts, city tours, team-building events or educational routes that are played at different locations via the app.

By integrating multimedia content and individual customisation options, users can create unique experiences for their target group.

This approach makes it possible to link the digital world with the real environment and create a rich, immersive learning environment.

One of the main characteristics about Actionbound is the versatility of the use case options. This is why our users are based in the education sector, in companies, in the event industry, but also in the private sector - so our large community connects people in different fields worldwide who are pursuing the goal of communicating content in a sustainable and contemporary way.

We are continuously expanding our software with new functions in order to offer even more design options for users' ideas.

Actionbound stands for the future of knowledge transfer and a world in which learning is fun!
